INTRODUCTION

The Training Programme on 'Parliamentary Administration' for the officers of the Rajya Sabha Secretariat was organized by 'Royal Institute of Parliamentary Administration (RIPA) International London' from 19th to 30th October, 2009. I was nominated along with eleven other participants from the Rajya Sabha Secretariat to attend the the said training programme.

On 19th October 2009, Mr. Ian Church, Director of Studies, RIPA welcomed the participants. He has briefed about the course contents of the training programme and the eminent faculty members with their profiles. The contents of the course were very valuable and useful to us. However, there was no specific lecture on security covered/ included in the programme.

The basic purpose of the training was to broaden the horizon of trainees so that we can contribute in the advancement of the Parliamentary Democracy by enhancing our knowledge and understanding of democratic governance. The objective of training was to enhance the efficiency to the optimum level thereby making a comparative study about the Rajya Sabha and the British Parliament in an explicit, comprehensive and informative manner.
